

*We're celebrating Scotland's First Small Blue
Butterfly Week (27th May to 4th June 2017)*

HELP US FIND Small Blue Butterflies and Kidney Vetch plants in Angus

The Small Blue is the UK's smallest butterfly; it is becoming increasingly rare. Volunteer surveyors are urgently needed to check current and historical sites on both the Angus coast and key sites inland. Please join us for an informal training afternoon searching for this charismatic butterfly and its food plant, Kidney Vetch.

FREE Survey Training, BARRY BUDDON Sunday 4th June 2017 (1pm – 4pm)

The training event will be led by David Lampard (Butterfly Conservation East Scotland Branch). Adults and children over 12 are welcome. Please bring suitable outdoor clothing/footwear and a drink. Details of the meeting place will be confirmed nearer the time.

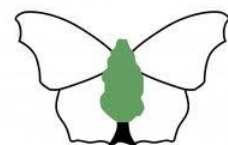

The training session is FREE to attend, but places are limited, so booking is essential. To book a place, contact David Lampard on Tel. 01382 432384 or e-mail david.lampard@leisureandculturedundee.com

Tayside Biodiversity Partnership

BIODIVERSITY
THE VARIETY OF LIFE

A JOINT TAYSIDE & NORTH EAST SCOTLAND BIODIVERSITY
PARTNERSHIP PROJECT working in association with Butterfly Conservation Scotland

Butterfly
Conservation
Scotland

NORTH-EAST SCOTLAND
BIODIVERSITY